Performance Report

What do these results mean?

The bar chart shows your performance on each section of the exam. The length of the bars provide information regarding your section-level performance. Bars that are further to the left reflect weaker performance, and bars that are further to the right reflect stronger performance. Because each section may contain a different number of questions, the length of bars cannot be used to calculate the number of questions answered correctly in that section or on the exam. They also cannot be combined to determine the percent of questions that you answered correctly on the exam.

What's next?

We hope the performance report provides you with helpful information as you work to identify areas for improvement for the next round. MongoDB Certification Exam Schedule \(/certification#schedule\)
